Why Go To A Gunsmith?

Gunsmiths are firearms professionals. They know what makes guns work, which ones are well made and which ones are not. Your gunsmith is the best source for accurate information about your firearm or ammunition needs. Your gunsmith can also supply you with the quality products you need at a fair price.

Mountain Shadow Arms is primarily a gunsmith shop that repairs, services, enhances, alters and custom builds guns, sometimes from scratch.

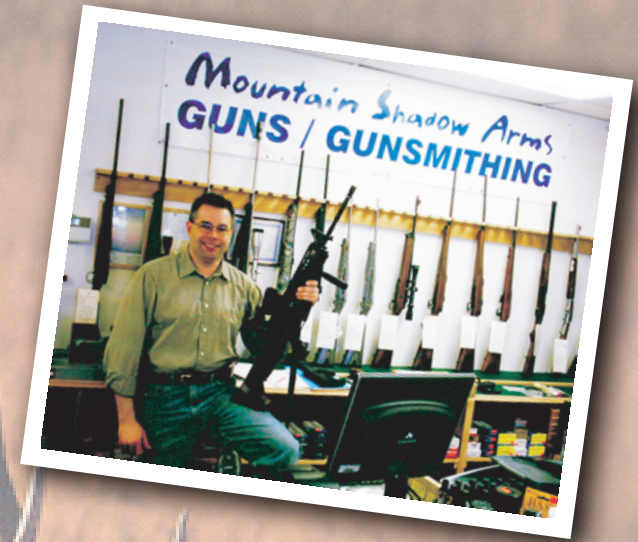

Since opening in 2005, we have serviced approximately 1000 firearms per year. The shop consists of a work shop that at any given time can have as many as 100 guns waiting to be serviced. Turn around time averages 2 - 4 weeks. The front of the store is a retail shop that sells a variety of firearms and accessories.

Eric H. Behlke, Gunsmith and Owner

Eric Behlke's firearms experience spans over thirty years. In 1981 Eric continued his pursued interest in firearms into the United States Marine Corps. and upon graduating first in his class from the prestigious U.S. Army Ordinance Center and School at Aberdeen Proving Grounds in Maryland, Eric went on to serve at the largest armory in the Marine Corps at Parris Island, South Carolina. There Eric honed his skills at complete firearms assembly and repair as this armory provided the highest level of repair service offered in the Marine Corps. He was later invited to join the RTE Shop in Quantico to train and become one of the Marine Corp's elite gunsmiths. While training in Quantico Eric attended instruction at the FBI Academy where he was certified by the National Rifle Association as a Police and Security Firearms Instructor and then went on to become a Close Combat Pistol Course Instructor for the Marine Corps. Eric served at the RTE Shop building sniper rifles and other high performance firearms until the end of his enlistment.

After many years of civilian gunsmithing and other business ventures the Behlke's decided in 2005 to relocate to Spokane and open their own store. A family man, and father of three sons, Eric loves serving the community of Spokane and plans on being a fixture here for many years to come.
